

PEARSON AGAIN HEADS WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS

Chosen President of Exchange for Fifteenth Consecutive Time.
Planning Banquet.

Officers were elected and annual reports presented by the Washington Wholesale Drug Exchange at its twenty-fourth banquet last night at the Raleigh Hotel, a feast of harmony and celebration of success of the organization.

Wymond H. Bradbury, manager, reported that the drug business generally had not suffered so keenly by the recent depression as some other lines, and declared there was a very decided optimism in the trade for the present year. "I don't believe the business of the exchange has ever been in a healthier condition," he said.

Paul Pearson was re-elected president for his fifteenth consecutive term of office; other officers named were: Charles E. Gross, honorary first vice president; William P. Herbst, first vice president; R. L. Quigley, second vice president; Robert N. Harper, treasurer; Herbert C. Eastman, secretary, and these directors: William T. Kerfoot, Jr.; Frank T. Stone, Ralph Judd, L. F. Bradley, and A. V. Burdine.

C. Harper declared the showing made by the exchange was most "creditable," and said that the exchange was looked upon by civic organizations and business men generally as one of the "successful and substantial organizations of the city."

Proposal was made to hold a big banquet in October or November for all retail druggists of the city, and Sam Harris of Baltimore, moving spirit of the big annual banquet of druggists there, told of the results of such co-operation. Other speakers of the evening were L. F. Truitt of Norfolk, Edward M. Duval of Baltimore, and William P. Herbst. The exchange gave an unanimous rising vote of appreciation to Mr. Bradbury, for his twenty-four years' service as manager.

George O'Connor, baritone, with Matt Horn at the piano, entertained with several numbers.

SPEAKERS AID WORKERS.
